

WM Thomson
Professor of Dental Epidemiology and Public Health
School of Dentistry
The University of Otago

Issues in dental public health: what does the research tell us?

In this presentation, Thomson will examine a number of contemporary issues in dental public health, using NZ research findings to shed light on questions such as: 1. What are the big oral health issues for New Zealanders? 2. What do we know about the natural history of oral conditions and why is it important? 3. Is oral health care beneficial? and 4. What is happening with our ageing population?